- E. Session linger

Answer: D,E

NEW QUESTION: 2

Cisco `ip http server` command is used to enable the HTTP server on the router. Which two of the following are valid options for the `ip http server` command? (Choose two.)

- A. `ip http username admin`
- B. `ip http server ip address port username password`
- C. `ip http client password backup`
- D. `ip http client username admin`
- E. `ip http client username admin`
- F. `ip http server ip address port username password`

Answer: D,E

Explanation:

The `ip http server` command is used to enable the HTTP server on the router. The command syntax is `ip http server [ip-address] [port] [username] [password]`. The `ip-address` and `port` options are optional. The `username` and `password` options are required. The `username` option is the username of the user that is used to authenticate the user. The `password` option is the password of the user that is used to authenticate the user.

Option A is incorrect because the `ip http username` command is used to configure the username and password of the user that is used to authenticate the user. Option B is incorrect because the `ip http server` command does not take the `ip-address` and `port` options. Option C is incorrect because the `ip http client password backup` command is used to configure the password backup for the HTTP client. Option D is correct because the `ip http client username admin` command is used to configure the username of the user that is used to authenticate the user. Option E is correct because the `ip http client username admin` command is used to configure the username of the user that is used to authenticate the user. Option F is incorrect because the `ip http server` command does not take the `ip-address` and `port` options.
